Partner Adam P. Silvers Spearheads Strategic Acquisition on Behalf of FatWire Software

Partner Irvin Brum plays integral advisory role in structuring and negotiating the transaction

- ▶ FatWire Software, a longstanding client and leading provider of content management solutions to business and industry, turned to RMF when it needed a team of trusted advisors to bring to fruition the acquisition of Infostoria Inc., a provider of web collaboration and content sharing tools
- ▶ As lead counsel, RMF advised FatWire in structuring the transaction, and negotiated and drafted the acquisition documents that enabled FatWire to successfully complete the transaction
- ▶ The acquisition now enables FatWire to deliver a richer set of web experience management solutions to help their customers optimize their online offerings and grow their businesses
- ▶ Further, Infostoria and its proprietary software solutions open up potential new markets and revenue streams for FatWire, positioning it well for the future

Partner Douglas J. Good Takes on Pro-Bono Matter, Helps Long Island Woman Victimized by Mortgage Scam

Assisted by associate Jennifer Hillman, Good leads two-year legal effort to help victim recoup losses

- ▶ A Great Neck woman, unable to maintain payments on her home due to financial setbacks, refinanced her home several times
- ▶ When she fell behind again, she was approached by a mortgage company claiming it could arrange another refinance with an outside guarantor
- ▶ At the supposed refinancing, she was told most of the equity was being held in escrow for future mortgage payments
- ▶ Shortly thereafter, the client learned that she had been duped into signing a deed transferring her house to a stranger
- ▶ RMF asserted fraud claims against the phony mortgage company, among others
- ▶ RMF was able to settle for nearly $100,000 with the bank and the attorney the mortgage company arranged for the client; RMF also won a decision imposing approximately $3 million in punitive damages against the mortgage company and its principals

Partner Jay B. Silverman Elected To Board of Directors of United Way of Long Island for Three-Year Term

Plans active involvement in advancing United Way's programs and initiatives

- ▶ Silverman serves as co-chair of the firm's Health Law Department and as chair of its Healthcare Professionals Practice Group
- ▶ With his extensive experience and knowledge of transactional and regulatory issues affecting the healthcare industry, Silverman counsels healthcare professionals, health facilities, not-for-profit entities and businesses concerning the implementation and execution of their business goals
- ▶ Presently, Silverman serves as General Counsel to the Suffolk County Medical Society and the Suffolk Academy of Medicine, and is on the Associate Board of Trustees of Parker Jewish Geriatrics Institute
- ▶ "I am honored to join the board of the United Way of Long Island, and am pleased to support the mission and vision of this outstanding organization," said Silverman
