Norman R. Cerullo is a Partner at Ruskin Moscou Faltischek, P.C. where he is a member of the Litigation and Health Law Departments at Ruskin Moscou Faltischek, P.C.

Norman's practice focuses on business litigation in both federal and state courts and in mediations and arbitrations. Norman's clients have included financial institutions, technology and software companies, real estate firms, government contractors, educational institutions, accounting firms, media and sports interests, not-for-profits and a host of other businesses and individuals in a wide array of complex matters. Norman has significant experience litigating cases involving breach of contract, real estate disputes, shareholder and partnership disputes, restrictive covenants and noncompete agreements, as well as intellectual property disputes, including claims of misappropriation of trade secrets.

Norman has been named by Super Lawyers to its list of Rising Stars as one of the top up-and-coming business litigators in the New York Metropolitan area, and to its list of New York area Super Lawyers. Norman was also the recipient of Long Island Business News' Inaugural Leadership in Law Award, recognizing individuals whose dedication to excellence and leadership, both in the legal profession and in the community, have had a positive impact on Long Island.

Norman serves on Touro Law Center's Board of Governors and has previously been a member of the Junior Committee and the Community Leadership Committee of the New York Police and Fire Widows' and Children's Benefit Fund, a nonprofit dedicated to supporting families of first responders who lost their lives in the line of duty.

Norman received his law degree from the American University-Washington College of Law, where he served as the Managing Editor of the American University Law Review. He obtained his undergraduate degree (B.A.) from Long Island University-C.W. Post, graduating magna cum laude. Prior to joining Ruskin Moscou Faltischek, P.C., Norman was associated with Mayer Brown LLP in New York City.

Norman is admitted to practice before the courts of the State of New York, the Federal Second and Seventh Circuit Courts of Appeal and the Southern and Eastern Districts of New York. He is a member of the New York State and Nassau County Bar Associations.
