Samantha Guido is an Associate at Ruskin Moscou Faltischek, P.C., where she is a member of the Corporate and Securities Department and Blockchain Technology and Digital Asset Practice Group. Samantha's practice concentrates on general corporate representation where she advises public and private clients on a broad range of corporate and securities matters including mergers and acquisitions, corporate governance, contracts, and SEC filings.

Prior to joining Ruskin Moscou Faltischek, P.C., Samantha was a member of the litigation practice group at a prominent Long Island law firm, where she represented private clients in complex commercial cases. Samantha also represented municipal clients in various types of lawsuits, including representing a municipality in an action brought under the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation and Liability Act. Finally, Samantha represented individuals in complex matrimonial and family law disputes.

In her commercial practice, Samantha has specific experience in representing businesses and individuals in cases involving contract disputes, partnership disputes, joint venture agreements, and breaches of fiduciary duty.

Samantha received her Juris Doctor from St. John's University School of Law. During her time in law school, Samantha was an Article and Notes Editor of the American Bankruptcy Law Review. Samantha was an active member of the law school community, serving as a Student Mentor and serving as a member of various organizations including the Federalist Society. Samantha was also the recipient of the Dean's Award for Excellence in Labor Law.

Samantha is the President and Co-Founding member of the Jane Guido Foundation, a Long Island Charity that provides financial assistance to families in need. Samantha is a proud supporter and Board of Directors member of Girls Inc. of Long Island, an affiliate of the nationally organized Girls Incorporated, whose mission is to inspire all girls to be strong, smart and bold.

Samantha is admitted to practice law in the State of New York and the United States District Court of the Eastern District of New York. She is a member of the Nassau County Bar Association, the Nassau County Women's Bar Association, the New York City Bar Association, and the New York State Bar Association.
